

COFFEE MORNING

From time to time we all need a 'Helping Hand'

Sometimes there aren't solutions to problems or issues that families experience, but being able to talk, share concerns and get the right advice early can make all the difference.

Mrs Kate Jones is our Special Educational Needs Coordinator and Mrs Su Kerr-Delworth is leading our work with Vulnerable Children.

These two roles cover children with diagnosed and undiagnosed SEN, Looked After Children, those entitled to Pupil Premium and children with specific medical needs.

There could also be a whole host of other reasons why children might need support ...such as eating issues, young carers, low self-esteem, bed-wetting, separated families, difficulties sustaining friendships, bereavement, behavioural issues, mobile phones & social media ... the list goes on.

There is a growing focus on the importance of children's well-being and this year we will be building on our assembly and PHSE work in school to strengthen this and ensure children and families can get the support they need.

We would like to offer an open invitation to our 'Helping Hands' Coffee Mornings, hosted by Mrs Kerr-Delworth and Mrs Jones, which will be at 9:30 on:

Thursday 30th March, Thursday 25th May and Thursday 13th July

Please come along if you have any worries, issues or concerns with your child or just need an opportunity to chat and share with other parents. Bringing up children can be hard; asking for help is a sign of strength, not a weakness. Sometimes it's just reassuring to know you're not alone! We will be here to offer support & advice if we can or signpost you to the right people who can help.

Of course the office and classroom doors are still always open, so please feel free to chat to any member of staff at any time.
